EVTM Newsletter September 2020

"NO EGO, JUST GOOD SCIENCE AND COLLABORATION"

Gradually life is starting to get back to a new normal. Summer has passed quickly, nevertheless, over the past few months EVTm has continued to collaborate with other organizations. Back in June EVTm and ESVS (European Society of Vascular Surgery) held a hugely successful joint venture via Zoom. Over 500 participants from all around the world tuned in with more following on both EVTm and ESVS websites. Because of the great interest, EVTm and ESVS have again planned to join forces during the ESVS Month with an Academy session being held on the 6th of October between 20.00 - 21.00 (CET).

The European Society for Trauma and Emergency Surgery (ESTES) have also collaborated with EVTm in a webinar on the use of REBOA focusing on the practical aspects as well as reducing and managing REBOA related complications.

Upcoming events during the next month include a two-part clinical case-based seminar organized by EVTm together with VEITH symposium. Additionally, on the 25th of September, EVTm will hold a mini-virtual Workshop where your team can either watch or also actively participate parallel at your institution with guidance via zoom. See jevtm.com for more info.

EVTm would also like to announce that JEVTM is now included for indexing in both Scopus and Web of Science. We encourage submissions of all kinds with focus on endovascular resuscitation and trauma management.

We soon hope to get back to normal activities such as congresses, workshops and seminars. Time to get non-virtual, face to face exchange of knowledge. Don't you agree?
